Qualifications

Are you qualified?

We have received multiple Tech Ops ASAP reports for expired qualifications.

GPM 19.02.3 was recently changed to the following:

E. Accessing Technical Operations training records.

1. Every 30 days, individuals are responsible to access their training record to verify the status of their qualifications and assigned training.

2. LAA Technical Operations employees can access their completed online OJT recorded in the Technical Operations Training On-the-Job (OJT) system by logging into Jetnet and selecting the following link: https://me.aa.com/training/OJT_Admin/default.asp.

Although most stations have a focal point that will assist in notifying maintenance employees when they have training they need to accomplish, it is important to remember that you are ultimately responsible for knowing what your qualifications are and if they are current.

Please keep in mind that the CORE training courses are not the only ones needed to stay current.

The top two trending expired qualifications that have been detected are Aircraft Maintenance Log and Airworthiness Release Authorization.

If you need additional assistance with how to locate your qualifications in the Learning Hub, please take the following course: MX02080 Learning Hub Qualifications
